John Philip Templin

Riverview High School Class of 1972
Nominated by his friend, Linda Ewing

John is a member of the first graduating class of Riverview. While at Riverview, John was a member of the National Honor Society and band. Also an avid swimmer, John was responsible for establishing swimming as a varsity sport at Oakmont High School. He was an All-State swimmer in his sophomore year, competing and winning the 100 yard breaststroke. As a junior John placed 18th overall in the WPIAL championships, despite having no pool and no other team members. His perseverance paid off as he received numerous scholarship offers from colleges and universities throughout the country.

Although John received an appointment to West Point, he chose to attend the University of Pittsburgh. One of his signature achievements is being the first individual from either Oakmont or Verona to receive such an honor. While at Pitt, John continued swimming, setting records in the 100 and 200 yard breaststroke events and the medley relay all four years. He was chosen an All Big East standout in swimming his freshman through junior years. He competed in two events in the 1975 NCAA Division Championships; and was one of the team's tri-captains in his senior year.

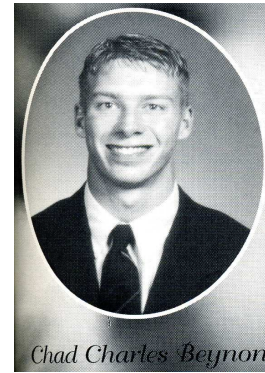

After graduating Cum Laude with a BS in Biochemistry in 1976, he attended the University of Pittsburgh's Graduate School of Public Health. He graduated Magna cum Laude with a MS in Occupational and Environmental Health Science in 1980. Since that time, John has dedicated his career to improving working conditions in America; particularly as they relate to reducing or eliminating exposure to workplace toxins like asbestos, lead, solvent vapors, as well as mitigating exposure to harmful physical agents such as noise, heat and ergonomic stressors.

John's career has pursued these objectives in academia, government and private industry. For 15 years, John worked with the Law Engineering and Environmental Services, Inc., establishing their Los Angeles branch operation. Also, as a Principal and Corporate Consultant with the firm, John helped write and implement the company's work and test procedures for asbestos; indoor environmental quality; and in the wake of September 11, Bacillus anthracis, the bacterium responsible for the disease, Anthrax.

In 2002, John joined Material Analytical Services (MAS) as Senior Consultant, establishing and leading their West Coast operations. Much of John's time over the many years has been devoted to providing expert testimony in litigation on behalf of plaintiffs who have been injured by exposure to asbestos, particularly those with mesothelioma. To date, John has testified in cases resulting in a total approaching $300 million awarded to the victims and their surviving family members.
